The Office of Alumni Advancement fosters the interest and involvement of current students and alumni in McMaster University by offering programming and services which further the goals of the University and the McMaster Alumni Association. Annual Giving programs are also the responsibility of the Office of Alumni Advancement.
welcome

McMaster University boasts 147,878 alumni residing in 129 countries world-wide

What a great year! I’ve had a tremendous time serving as your president this year and I’m proud of all that we achieved together. We’ve made great strides in implementing new initiatives and enhancements in year one of the Strategic Plan and I’m looking forward to aligning our new Alumni community service program with the overall University plan. A highlight over my term has been the privilege to get to know and work with McMaster’s new president, Dr. Patrick Deane and introduce him to so many alumni since he took office in July. As always, we hope to engage our alumni in all that we do. I invite you to review this report and share your thoughts on how we can continue to connect and engage alumni through 2011/2012 and beyond!

This year has focused on enhancing our strengths and to introducing a few strategic programs – expanding our professional development day into Toronto; increasing the opportunities for McMaster faculty to speak to an alumni audience and to increase our social media presence and engagement with alumni. We are pleased it’s been another award-winning year for our program. Before we polish the hardware, we’d like to hear your thoughts, because in the end, it’s your opinion that matters most to us. Drop us a line and let us know what you think!

Program Highlights from 2010-2011
Welcome Patrick! On July 1, 2010 Dr. Patrick Deane, our seventh President and Vice-Chancellor took office at McMaster. Our first opportunity to introduce Dr. Deane to our alumni came even before he arrived on campus, with a Kingston ‘send-off’. Association President, David Adames met with Dr. Deane on day one on the job and announced the Association’s gift of presidential robes for our new president. Alumni in Ottawa, Hamilton, Toronto, Calgary, Vancouver, Victoria and New York all had the opportunity to get to know Dr. Deane through welcome receptions over the course of the year.

New Programming: Under the strategic plan, we sought new opportunities to engage alumni in meaningful ways. Amongst the initiatives, we introduced employer-based alumni events and kicked off this concept with a City of Hamilton alumni event which was very well received. As an extension of our already successful Women’s Series, we expanded to bring a Women’s Only Professional Development Day to Toronto to address the unique needs of career-minded alumnae. In an effort to bring more of McMaster out on the road, we hosted a number of lectures with McMaster Faculty outside of the Hamilton area – from Oakville to Sudbury to Vancouver and Burlington. Podcasting select local lectures also enables us to include alumni at a distance in our programming and share our talented faculty with many more alumni. Finally, we targeted programming to another group that is growing here at McMaster and that is our graduate student body. Already alumni themselves, they value the networking opportunities and workshops that we are able to customize to their needs. These new initiatives encourage us to continue to seek new ways to bring alumni into our programming.

Social Media: How we communicate and interact with alumni continues to evolve with the ever-changing world of social media. The nature of our communication changed as we are actively engaging alumni on our social networks rather than simply pushing out information on these channels. The opportunities for virtual participation in the program increased greatly as we posted more video, podcasted lectures and increased the interactive contests and features within Maroon Mail. As the numbers show on our communications summary page, we are gathering more alumni to engage in this way.

Cities we visited in 2010-2011 – Barrie, Beijing, Brantford, Burlington, Calgary, Glendale AZ, Hamilton, Hong Kong, Houston, Kingston, Los Angeles, London ON, Melbourne, Mississauga, New York, Niagara, Oakville, Ottawa, Shanghai, Singapore, Stratford, Sudbury, Sydney, Toronto, Vancouver, Victoria, Washington, Waterloo
Honorary Membership
Honorary membership in the Alumni Association recognizes the outstanding service of those who are not alumni.

Dr. Patrick Deane, McMaster’s seventh President and Vice-Chancellor has demonstrated a sincere dedication to the McMaster community and has been an active participant in the Alumni Association. His indelible connection the Association is recognized through the granting of Honorary Membership in the Association.

Distinguished Service Award
The highest volunteer award given by the McMaster Alumni Association, the Distinguished Service Award recognizes outstanding contributions and extraordinary dedication to the Alumni Association.

John Panabaker B.A. ’50, M.A. ’54, L.L.D ’81
Dr. Panabaker’s studies in economics led him to a distinguished career in financial services. John made time to stay involved at McMaster in several significant roles volunteering for Board of Governors as an alumni representative and later served as the Board’s chair. He was a member of the McMaster Museum of Art’s administrative board and from 1986 to 1992, John served with distinction as Chancellor of McMaster University. John’s long-term loyalty and dedication to McMaster University and the McMaster alumni community make him an outstanding candidate for the Distinguished Service Award.

Currently, there are 367 members of the Alumni Gallery. Taped interviews with Gallery members can be heard on CFMU 93.3 campus radio and are now available on iTunes.
Alumni Gallery

Alumni Gallery inductees have led fascinating and accomplished lives and set high standards of achievement for McMaster’s current students, alumni and the greater community. This most prestigious honour is bestowed by the Alumni Association on the following eight alumni.
